

PRESS COMMENT

PROSPERITY DEPENDS UPON DEVELOPMENT.
(Buffalo Commercial.)
Not only does the future prosperity of the country demand careful conservation of its natural resources, but this conservation should carry with it practical and extensive development of oil, mineral and other industrial features.

LEASING PROGRAM OVERCOMES WESTERN OPPOSITION TO CONSERVATION.
(San Francisco Chronicle.)

The Secretary (of the Interior) has outlined practical means of furthering the program of the West through income that may be had from public lands, the government retaining title and control. This he would have done through leasing coal, phosphate, oil, potash and other lands, on a royalty basis. Of this revenue he estimates that not less than 75 per cent. should be apportioned to the states, respectively, from which it is derived, to compensate for their inability to do such lands as they maintain under government ownership. Without such use of public money to irrigate desert lands, and so make them available for settlement and production, those lands would remain of no National value. But if the money laid out in irrigation development, under the terms of the Reclamation act, it was turned all to the benefit of the Government. And many thousands of acres thus would be converted from absolute barrenness to a high degree of productivity, and many more would be established where now is nothing but desolation and solitude.

This far-seeing and liberal program has much to commend in that the least of its merits is its tendency to overcome State opposition to the conservation policy, which is still very strong in some parts of the west, being ardently asserted and kept alive by predatory and grasping private interests.

THE HOME MAKER VS. THE SPECULATOR.
(Enterprise, Montrose, Colo.)

The Reclamation Service and the land laws are primarily for the benefit of the poor man, to give the man with but little means an opportunity for getting a home of his own. The government officials tell us, and we who live under reclamation projects can see in a measure, that the poor man hasn't much chance under a reclamation project. The officials claim that the reason for this is that the speculator has stepped in between the poor man and the government and grabbed up the land with the intention of getting a stake-off for himself. The speculator is close to the proposition and their claim ought to carry considerable weight.

If a poor man could not afford to hold in this valley on anything like reasonable prices and terms, home-seekers would flock here in great numbers.

We are told that we do not want poor people to come, we want men with plenty of money to buy our land. If the poor man has no chance on a government reclamation project the reclamation act has failed in its prime purpose.

We don't like this spirit which towns upon the man without a bank account. There is many a man who may be poor in pocketbook, but rich in the energy and enthusiasm and the willingness to do what builds communities, who would be glad to assist their neighbors in the development of our community if they were given but a chance. Of course there are some who would not take advantage of any opportunity, but it is hardly different from the man who, until they have been given a chance.

There is no reason why anybody who has common sense and is not afraid of work should not take advantage of a good and prosperous opportunity and in time establish one of those little places that can boast of a bank account.

LEASES OF GOVERNMENT COAL AND PETROLEUM LANDS.
(The Sun, Baltimore, Md.)

The suggestion made by Secretary Lane in his report for 1913, that the Government should hereafter not sell outright coal and petroleum lands, but should only lease them for a term of years, restricting the use of them and the right to re-lease them at the end of the term on new conditions, has not yet been acted upon by Congress. Secretary Lane's plan, and he urges that "with these lessons at hand the country should be prompt to adopt the leasing of the Secretary of the Interior and assist him in carrying through his program for the future control and disposition of these lands." The Secretary's plan should have Congressional attention at the very first opportunity. The advantages of such a system are too obvious to require argument. It would put the Government in a position to prevent such labor wars as have occurred in Colorado and elsewhere, and might easily be made to protect the public from exorbitant charges also. If the Colorado strike shall have the effect of hastening the adoption of such a policy, it will not have proved an unwise evil.

RELIEVES BLADDER DISTRESS AND WEAKNESS.

Irregular, painful bladder weakness disappear when the kidneys are strong and healthy. Take Foley Kidney Pills for that burning, scalding sensation, irregular, painful action, heavy, sore feeling and bladder distress. You will like their tonic restorative effect, the relief from pain—quick good results. Contains no harmful drugs. Try them. Hinkle's Drug Stores.—Adv.

UNEXPECTED PRESCRIPTION.

Mr. Norton was a very patient man and a long-suffering one. Mrs. Norton provided continuous flow of conversation, and was known as a nag. Finally, the nerves of the poor man gave way, and the physician was called.

"He must have complete rest and undisturbed sleep," said the doctor, as he looked thoughtfully at the woman. "I will send you some sleeping powders which must be used exactly as written on the box. Will you promise to do this, madam, or must I order him to the hospital?"

"Indeed, yes, promise," cried Mrs. Norton, tearfully. "I will give them just as you direct, doctor."

When the box came from the drug-store, the label read—
"Sleeping powder to be taken at night and morning by Mrs. Norton."—National Monthly.

SHACKLETON PLANS TRAINING TRIP TO NORWEGIAN GLACIER

Perfect Arctic Ration Will Be Tested by Companions Of Explorer.

Big Canadian-Bred Dogs Chosen For Journey Across Ice Continent.

London, May 23.—With a thoroughness which has always characterized his work, Sir Ernest Shackleton is about to make a preliminary trial expedition under Arctic conditions in the glaciers of Norway. This will be for the special purpose of testing the rations for his trip across the Antarctic continent, which he hopes to make in four and one-half months time. No party has ever started out without having food depots, to make such a distance as that in a straight line, but Sir Ernest and his men have made special preparations for the attempt.

They have with the aid of the Royal Army Medical Corps, solved the perfect ration. It will be made up of only ounces of food, as compared with the 8 pounds or more consumed by the average man, but it is believed it represents the highest nutritive value for polar travel.

Sir Ernest will be accompanied by five members of his staff when he goes to Norway to conduct experiments with these rations and also test his dogs and motor sledges. The party will do polar work and travel among the glaciers. While the cold will not be as intense as in the polar regions, the country will furnish the same sort of hazards that are experienced in the Antarctic.

The party will test the effect and potency of the rations in the most detailed fashion. Such an experiment has never been made before.

Shackleton's new ship, the Endurance, has been almost completely fitted in Norway and will arrive at the London docks this month. She is 15 feet longer than his last ship, Nimrod. She is a beautiful specimen of wooden ship building and probably the last of her class that will be constructed.

Her whole hull is made of solid oak, two and a half feet thick, and her sides are two feet thick.

She belongs to the barkentine class, has the largest triple expansion engines, and will steam ten knots an hour. She is fitted to consume both oil and coal. When in the ice oil will be substituted for coal, which will mean economy at a time when fuel is so scarce.

The Endurance will take on a hundred tons of coal briquettes at the South Shetland Islands, so she will enter the Weddell Sea with full bunkers.

The second ship, Aurora, intended for the Endurance side of the expedition, has been purchased and will be delivered at Hobart, Tasmania, at the end of August.

The Endurance which is to operate on the other side of the Antarctic will leave England early in August for Buenos Aires, where she will finally start for the Antarctic base in October. Most of the members will leave England in the Endurance, but Sir Ernest Shackleton will travel later by mail steamer, and John his ship at Buenos Aires.

The dogs which constitute an important factor in the expedition, are a cross between a wolf and a Scotch stag hound, and have been bred in northern Canada. The lightest of the pack will turn into a slightly heavier breed, the heaviest dog weighing 45 lbs. They have been selected by the experts of the Hudson Bay Company. Most of the dogs are charge of one of the most experienced drivers from Canada, who was chosen by the Commissioners of the North West Mounted Police.

The latest appointments to the expedition are Sir Philip L. Brocklehurst, who was with Shackleton on 1907 and 1909 and who made the first ascent of Mount Erebus, and his brother, Lieut. Colonel Brocklehurst of the 11th Hussars. Hundreds of applications for positions with the expedition have been received.

BUILDING NOTES OF LOCAL INTEREST

Eighteen permits to build, the aggregate cost of the work to be $23,415, were issued by the building commissioners at their meeting Friday night. The permits were:

E. W. Murray, frame garage, 1,334 East Main street.

George Lacey and George Kahle, one-story frame shed, south side of North avenue.

David T. Lane, three-family frame dwelling, east side of Myrtle street.

Annie Wright, frame garage (P), west side of Main street.

James T. Geremia, two-family frame dwelling, north side of Main street.

F. B. Curtis, alterations to present building, east side of Main street.

City of Bridgeport, concrete floor No. 2 engine house, south side of Crescent avenue.

City of Bridgeport, brick storage building, north side of John street.

W. Lang, two-story frame shed, south side of Deacon street.

Abraham Smith, two one-half story frame store and dwelling, east side of Madison avenue.

Abraham Smith, three-family frame dwelling, east side of Madison avenue.

A. Gerh, one-story frame addition to dwelling, south side of Grandfield avenue.

D. F. & M. A. Ball, frame porch, east side No. 1, 413 Franklin avenue.

Andrew and Annie Flajalak, two-family frame dwelling, west side of Orchard street.

W. H. Nichols, to alter a barn into a dwelling, north side of Monroe street.

Otto Neuman, one-family frame addition to dwelling, 253 Carroll avenue.

Emil Stahl, frame addition to rear dwelling, south side, 41 Federal street.

Catherine B. Wade, one-family frame dwelling, north side of Hawley avenue.

The board of contract and supply is advertising for bids to be opened at 12 o'clock on June 1 for the printing of the municipal register. The board is also advertising for bids to furnish beef for Lakeview home for the month of June. The bids to be opened on May 28.

Gordon Craig

Soldier of Fortune — by Randall Parrish

Copyright, 1912, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

The Story by Chapters.

Chapter I.—The First Step.
Chapter II.—The Woman.
Chapter III.—Her Story.
Chapter IV.—We Go South.
Chapter V.—A Pleasant Welcome.
Chapter VI.—I Get Into the Game.
Chapter VII.—The Decision.
Chapter VIII.—Circumstantial Evidence.
Chapter IX.—A Chamber of Horrors.
Chapter X.—Taken Prisoner.
Chapter XI.—Change Front.
Chapter XII.—I Join the Sea Gull.
Chapter XIII.—Tables Turned.
Chapter XIV.—The Crooked Story.
Chapter XV.—Under Way.
Chapter XVI.—The Open Sea.
Chapter XVII.—The Revenue Cutter.
Chapter XVIII.—In Possession.

CHAPTER I.

The First Step.

I HAD placed the lumber inside the yard, as directed, and was already retreating the traces when the man crossed the street slowly, switching his light cane carelessly in the air. He was forty or forty-five, heavily built, with a rather pasty white face, a large nose, eyes unusually deep set and a closely clipped mustache beginning to gray. As I faced him in some surprise he looked me fairly in the eyes.

"You are the lad the train hands put off the Atlantic express at Vernon a week ago," he said. "I came in on the same train. Just caught a glimpse of your face in the light of the brakeman's lantern. How did you get here?"

"Freight, two hours later," I answered. "You're not a bum or you wouldn't be working."

I put one foot on the wheel. "Wait a minute," and there was more animation in the tone. "I may have something better for you than this lumber wagon. I'm right, ain't I?"

"I've bumped it no regular bump!" I answered. "I had to get out of the way from San Francisco. I had to go home for the east and lost my transportation. I was discharged at the Presidio."

"Oh, I see. The army-foreign service?"

"No, Philippines, three years; invalided home. You're a regular animal, Fey?"

"Never saw a more perfect animal. Fey?"

"No, bolo wound." He looked at his watch, and I climbed into my seat.

"See here, I haven't time to talk now. If you want an easier job than this one, and see me at 9 tonight, and we'll talk it over."

"Gordon Craig," I answered. "Ever been known by any other?"

"I enlisted under another. I ran away from home and was not of age. Out of his sight I looked curiously at the cab. It was the advertisement of a clothing house, and on the back was written 'P. B. Neale, 108 Chestnut street.'"

Evidently this man Neale had need of a stranger to help him out in some scheme. Well, if the pay was good and the purpose not criminal I had no objections to the spice of danger. Indeed, that was what I loved in life. I was young, full blooded, strong, willing, enough to take desperate chances for sufficient reward.

My father, from whom I had not heard a word in two years, was a prominent manufacturer in a New England village. The early death of my mother had left me to his care when I was but ten years old, and we failed to understand each other, drifting apart, until a final quarrel had sent me adrift. I was in my junior year at Princeton, when the break came. This all occurred four years previous, three of which had been passed in the ranks, yet even now I was stubbornly resolved not to return unsuccessful.

I possessed a fairly decent suit of clothes, now pressed and cleaned after the rough trip from the coast, and that evening I dressed as carefully as possible in these dingy room, of my boarding house. It was still daylight, but there was a long walk before me. Chestnut street was across the river, in the more aristocratic section.

It was dark enough when I got there and began seeking the number. I found No. 108. It was slightly back from the street, a large stone mansion, surrounded by a low coping of brick and with no light showing anywhere. I was obliged to mount the front steps before I could assure myself this was the place. I followed the narrow cement walk around the corner of the house. One window on the first floor exhibited a faint glow at the edge of a closely drawn curtain. I rapped on the door three times, my nerves tingling from excitement. There was a moment's delay so that I lifted my hand again, and then the door opened silently.

"Come in," said a man's voice. I stepped within, seeing nothing of the man, and the door was closed behind me. The sharp click of the latch convinced me it was secured by a spring lock.

"Turn on the light," said the voice at my side sharply. Instantly an electric bulb glowed, dazing overhead in a narrow hallway and I blinked, almost half blinded by the sudden change.

Neale, appearing somewhat more slender in evening clothes, smiled at me genially, showing a gold crowned tooth, and led the way to a spacious apartment, evidently a library. The high ceiling and ruffled wall decorations were emphasized by luxurious furnishings. The only light was under a shaded globe on the central table, leaving the main apartment in shadows, but the windows had their heavy curtains closely drawn. The sole occupant was a man in evening dress, seated in a high backed leather chair. With an indolent wave of one hand he seemingly invited me to take a vacant chair to the right, while Neale remained standing near the door.

This new position gave me a better view of his face, but I could not guess his age. His was one of those old young faces, deeply lined, smooth shaven, the hair clipped short, the flesh ashen gray. He must have stared at me a full minute.

"He will do very well, Neale," he decided, with a glance across at the other. "Possibly a trifle young. Have a cigar or a drink, Craig?"

"I will smoke." "Twenty-four." "Ever been south?"

"Once as far as St. Louis. I was at Jefferson barracks." "Neale said you were in the army—full enlistment?"

"Yes. Discharged as corporal." "You would be glad of a job that paid well and wouldn't mind if there was a bit of excitement connected with it, hey?"

"What is your idea of paying well?" "Expenses liberally figured," he replied slowly, "and $10,000 for a year's work or less if done right."

I half rose to my feet in surprise. "Sit down, man. This is no pipe dream, and I mean it. In fact, I am willing to hand you half of the money down. See here, Craig," and he leaned forward, peering into my face, "all you have got to do to earn your money is obey orders strictly and keep your tongue still. Do you get that?"

"The reputation looks good, only I should like to know a little more clearly what I am expected to do."

He slowly lit a fresh cigar, studying the expression of my face in the light as though deciding upon a course of action.

"Very good. We'll come down to facts. It will not take long. In the first place, my name is Vail—Justin C. Vail. I am a lawyer of some reputation in this state, and my entire interest in this affair is that of legal adviser of Mr. Neale. Here is the case as submitted to me: Judge Philip Henley, formerly of the United States circuit court, retired at sixty-four and settled upon a large plantation near Carrollton, Ala. His wife died soon after, and a week or so ago the judge also departed this life, leaving an estate valued at excess of $500,000. Philip Henley and wife had but one child, now a young man of twenty-five years, named Philip. As a boy he was wild and unmanageable, and finally when about twenty years old some prank occurred of so serious a nature that the lad ran away. For some time he was unheard of for some time, living under an assumed name. Later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her, and she, living under an assumed name, later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a round